to a certain degree that is not equal, it unequally status relatively with where are come from, your educated standard, and your parents background (Mai, 2015). However, the schools provide children with educational and social foundation for future successful education, culture and race is the way effect on working-class minority children educational successfully (Smith &Sadovnik , 2003).

2.3 CULTURAL ASSIMILATION THEORY

Culture Assimilation theory explained some minority students acquired good traditional culture, and they avoided negative traditional culture effect on their future achievement. Natural assimilation refers that the different ethnic groups get along with each others through long-term interaction. Through production, living, culture influence each other, one ethic group under the condition of the completely natural, voluntary to accept the other ethnic characteristics, change their ethnic characteristics into the other party by phenomenon. National natural assimilation is completely different from forced assimilation, it is not attained through violence and privileges, but between different ethnic groups, free nature, is a long-term process of "choice" and natural adaptation. National natural assimilation is a kind of close to the high development of economy and civilization of the form. The subject must be better than assimilation object its assimilation was high degree of assimilation of ethnic development. In the national natural assimilation, economic strength, cultural level, is crucial. In a sense, the national natural assimilation process is essentially the backward mode of production of advanced production mode in the process of learning is a kind of special phenomenon. Therefore, may say, it is a progressive phenomenon in the development of human history forward.

Natural assimilation refers that the different ethnic groups get along with each others through long-term interaction. Through production, living, culture influence each other, one ethic group under the condition of the completely natural, voluntary to accept the other ethnic characteristics, change their ethnic characteristics into the other party by phenomenon. National natural assimilation is completely different from forced assimilation, it is not attained through violence and privileges, but between different ethnic groups, free nature, is a long-term process of "choice" and natural adaptation. National natural assimilation is a kind of close to the high development of economy and civilization of the form. The subject must be better than assimilation object its assimilation was high degree of