4. ANALYSIS RESULT

4.1 Individul Factor

Basic on data gathered from students, the research was using SPSS system Multiple regression analysis followed

Through the table shows that students play online games, finished homework individually, and try their best in studying can affect on their learning achievement.

Firstly, students finish their homework individually. It means students understand what's they learned in classroom. Secondly, play online game is the most important factors that effect on students learning achievement, because they are teenaged, they are not fully capable of self-control. If the students spend long period of time play online game, it will waste time for their learning. Finally, students' attitude is one of significant variable effect on students learning achievement. Thus, individual factor has to consider this three significant variable.

Model 2 is analysis school factors related with students learning achievement, in model 2 found that teacher teaching methods, Teachers help, and Room teacher contact with student's parents effect on student's learning achievement. According to ANOVA (Sig) result significant shown that these four factors effect on students' learning achievement.

Model 3 analysis student's individual factors related with student learning achievement, through SPSS Linear regression analysis result, the researcher found that R Square is 0.066, it means individual factors will more effect on students' learning achievement that school factors.
